Slaves of the Sun

Where Is the League?
Won $1,000 a Minute

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1927, by the Star Co.

PROFESSOR TCHIZEVSKY of Moscow says "man is the slave of the sun, and its vast electrical power." Sun spots represent solar electrical energy that develops microbe life here, increasing diseases and their intensity. The learned man says the history of great plagues for the last thousand years supports his theory that sun spots are responsible for the present influenza epidemic.

We are, of course, products of the sun's life and heat, but part of the product is a more or less feeble thinking capacity. Use it, avoid colds and fatigue, live sanely and sun spots won't hurt you, or microbes, either.

DR. NORRIS, New York's chief medical examiner, reports to Mayor Walker that there is no prohibition in New York, as regards whiskey. There are as many "speakeasies" as there were saloons before prohibition. All of those that ever drank, still drink, but beer drinkers have been changed to bootleg whiskey drinkers and will not cumber the earth as long as they might have done on a beer diet.

Art Is Only True Love of Charlie Chaplin

By MILDRED HARRIS.

(Copyright, 1927, by Mildred Harris. Reproduction, whole, or in part, prohibited.)

In this installment of her life with Charlie Chaplin, film comedian, Mildred Harris tells of his indifference to her friends and his jealous hoarding of her to himself.

I thought, when we were married, that my friends would come to be his friends and I pictured myself entertaining them in our new home.

It was not very long before I found that this was impossible. Charlie's ideas of friendship were not broad enough to mix pleasantly with people unless he found them interesting.

Somehow there seemed to be very little in common between the friends who had been mine before my marriage and my husband. He simply did not care for them and he never took the trouble to conceal the fact.

He is a man who finds it very hard to disguise his feelings. If he does not like a person, it is only too evident. He does not do it consciously, perhaps, but it does not seem worth while to him to pretend.

And so I found that I could not do as I had planned, and ask my

ESCAPE BY STAIRS IS CUT OFF

Trapped on second-floor balconies by smoke and flames which filled their house, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Cosby and their twin daughters, Charlotte and Carolyn, were saved by firemen in a two-alarm blaze at No. 30 Englewood avenue, Brookline.

Aided by Boston firemen, the Brookline department checked the flames only after damage estimated at $10,000 had been done to the large house by fire, smoke and water.

For a time it was feared the flames would spread to other houses and the entire neighborhood was aroused.

Awakening to find the house filled with smoke, Mrs. Cosby gave the alarm to the other members of the family. They tried to get downstairs, but could not, and then all sought safety on the second-floor balconies.

There they screamed for help until a neighbor, Frederick Estes of No.

RUSH AID TO BIG LINER

Halifax, Feb. 7.—Drained of fuel by a leak in her oil reservoir, the shipping Borad trans-Atlantic liner President Harding radioed for aid today after dropping anchor ten miles from the harbor of Halifax, N. S.

The Canadian government steamer Lady Laurier coaled hastily and went to the liner's aid, to tow her into Halifax. The President Harding is bound from Bremen to New York with many passengers.

With calm weather prevailing, there was no danger, but had there been storms along the coast the vessel might have met with serious trouble.

In his radio flash, addressed to the Marine and Fisheries Department at Halifax, the captain described his position as eight miles of Jeddore.

When the liner reaches port, a survey will be made to ascertain the time needed to repair the leaking tank and refill with fuel oil. Arrangements may be made for taking passengers to New York.

HUSBAND AND WIFE CHOSEN ON TURNER DEATH JURY

Pine Tree State to be foreman of a murder jury.

The jury was drawn in the record time of thirty minutes. Miss Jordan was the fifth juror selected, Haskell, a farmer, was second, and his wife was twelfth and last.

The jurors sat as follows in the box:

Miss Gladys Jordan (foreman), housekeeper, Raymond; Emery A. Coffin, retired, Brunswick; Samuel D. Latham, retired locomotive engineer, South Portland; Fred L. Haskell, farmer, Windham; George L. Blanchard, stationery engineer, Brunswick; John W. Knight, merchant, Gorham; Joseph N. Small, mill worker, Westbrook; Leland S. Buck, farmer, Harrison; Manley McFarland, South Portland; George W. Cronin, engineer of Maine Teachers' Agency, Westbrook; Henry M. Hutchins, jeweler, Westbrook, and Mrs. Emma Haskell, housewife, Windham.

Following selection of the jury Turner was placed on trial before Judge Arthur Chapman, charged with the murder of Hallen, whom he is alleged to have tracked from Mexico City.

"INSANITY" IS DEFENSE.

Hallen, a disbarred lawyer and adventurer, was called from his home in Falmouth Foreside on last September 4 and shot to death on the front lawn. The State claims Turner traveled the 3,000 miles to avenge a feud.

Both women jurors manifested keen interest in the accused young man, who sat at his counsel's table. Miss Jordan, at times, leaned over the better to scrutinize him while other talesmen were being interrogated.

Former Judge Joseph E. F. Connolly, senior counsel for Turner, intimated in his examination of talesmen that the defense would be temporary insanity. Turner was under observation at the State Hospital for insane at Augusta, but was pronounced sane by alienists.

This survey of his mentality was what delayed the trial, scheduled for last October.

Turner, as debonair as a bank clerk, pleaded "not guilty" in a clear, firm voice.

He was a trifle pale, but looked fagged.

He is of medium height, dark complexion, wore a natty dark suit and has an intelligent face.

The defendant was active in coaching his attorneys as to the qualification of prospective jurors and seemed pleased with the selection of the two women, sharing the interest of a packed court chamber when Miss Jordan was selected to pilot the jury.

WOMAN AS FOREMAN.

Attorney-General Raymond Fellows, interrogating Miss Jordan, first of the two women jurors called, said: "Are you conscious of any prejudice as a result of what you have read or heard about this case?" She answered, "No."

Q.—Did you know James D. Hallen? A.—No.

Q.—Did you know of his reputation? A.—No.

Q.—Do you think you can sit as a member of this panel and decide squarely the issues according to the evidence and the court's instructions? A.—I do.

Attorney-General Fellows—No objections on the part of the State.

Attorney Connolly—Acceptable to the defense.

Miss Jordan slipped into No. 5 chair. When appointed foreman, she briskly stepped to the head of the panel and scores of women spectators nudged each other and did not attempt to conceal their admiration and satisfaction.

Miss Jordan wears glasses and has the refined, intellectual appearance of a college instructor.

Mrs. Haskell, her sister juror, is tall and slender, also wears glasses and has the confident speech and manner of a clubwoman.

Another unusual touch to the trial came when deputies were sworn in to guard the jury. Mrs. Beulah Skinner, a deputy court officer, was added to the squad to look after the needs and comforts of the women jurors.

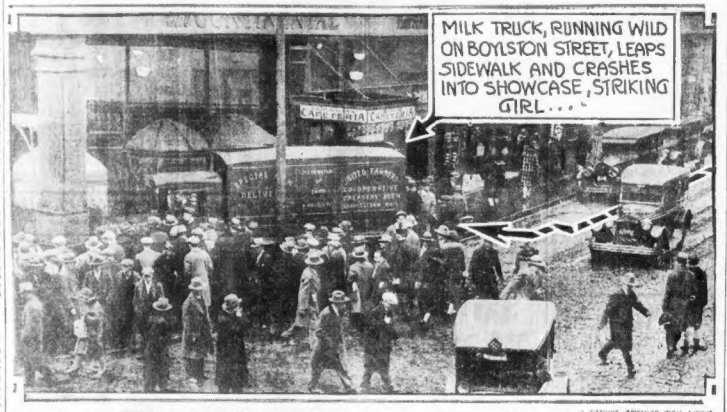

CLAM-DIGGERS FIND THE BODY OF DROWNED MAN

He had brown hair.

DEAF WOMAN ON TRACK IS STRUCK BY TRAIN

She was thrown several feet. She was taken to the Brockton City Hospital, where her condition is critical.

Wild Truck 'Delivers' ~ Milk for Boylston Street

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN STEERING GEAR WON'T STEER
This big truck, "wild on milk," a pedestrian said, as he jumped, crashed across the curb in Boylston street, at Washington street today, shattered a plate glass window, climbed into the lobby of the Continental clothing store and injured Miss Jeanne Tripp. The driver was uninjured and many pedestrians had close calls.

2 CHILDREN ARE KILLED AS BOMB WRECKS HOME

Pittsburgh, Kan., Feb. 7 (A.P.)—A dynamite bomb wrecked the home of Mrs. Earl Mayberry and killed her two children, a girl 11 and a boy of six, as they slept early today. Mrs. Mayberry, was injured severely but probably will recover. Mayberry, arrested soon after the explosion as he lay in bed in his room six blocks away was being questioned. He denied knowledge of the crime. He and his wife separated about a year ago and a suit for divorce, filed by Mayberry, is pending.

After skidding, a huge milk truck jumped the curb of Boylston street, at Washington street, today, struck a girl, climbed into the lobby of the Continental Clothing Co., knocked over a lobby display case, and then came to rest.

The girl, Miss Jeanne Tripp of Monadnock street, Dorchester, suffered a strained back and contusions of the right thigh. She was taken to the Haymarket Relief Hospital in the ambulance of the Lagrange street police station.

driver of the milk truck, escaped injury, but accompanied the girl to the hospital in the ambulance. A passenger with Blades on the truck, Frank Fogan of Monument street, West Medford, also escaped injury.

Hundreds of pedestrians, a majority of them women and girls, were passing the danger spot at the time on their way to work, and many narrowly escaped being struck.

Throughout the early hours of the business day the truck was an object of curiosity to the passing throngs as it rested, as if on display, in the open front of the clothing store.

ask that Secretary Kellogg call into service the ambassadors in Switzerland, Germany, France and England.

The child is heiress to nearly $200,000, the estate of her late father, Henry E. Nolan, formerly of Hartford, Ct. Nolan, who was in the ambulance service during the war, married the pretty French girl, now Mrs. Bond, in Paris, and they were divorced after the birth of the little girl.

In support of her claim that her husband wished her to be guardian of their child rather than members of his own family, Mrs. Bond showed the last will of the little girl's father.

At the same time she reiterated her charges that little Lucienne was kidnaped in Switzerland after her father died there, and is now being hidden away so that she has been unable for more than a year to find any trace of her daughter.

"If I was sure that my little girl was in Bavaria," said Mrs. Bond, "I would be willing to swim across the Atlantic Ocean and crawl on my knees from Havre to be with her again."

Nolan died in Switzerland on December 15, 1925. His will was probated at Hartford, Ct., in June, 1926. Attorney Thomas D. Lavelle, counsel for Mrs. Bond, showed the codicil attached to the Nolan will by which Mrs. Bond claims guardianship of the child.

"Whereas, my mother, Emily St. John Nolan, was named as guardian of my daughter, Lucienne St. John Nolan, during her minority in my said will; and

"Whereas, my mother has deceased since the execution of that will, now, therefore, I hereby name, constitute and appoint Mrs. Lucienne Bond, the mother of my said daughter, as her guardian during her minority with full power to receive the income from the property held in trust for her and to make such expenditures of said money as may be necessary for her care, comfort, support and education during the period of her minority."

ASK REJECTION OF $1,000,000 L. I. HOSPITAL

The Finance Commission in a report filed with the city council recommends that the loan for $1,000,000 for improvements at the Long Island Hospital be rejected.

On January 31, Mayor Nichols submitted a loan order for $1,000,000 for the purpose of providing new buildings and additions to buildings at the institution on Long Island, which consists of the almshouse and hospital for chronic invalids.

It is proposed to use the proceeds of the loan to construct additional men's dormitories, additional wings to the men's hospital and additions to the children's building, the nurses home and power plant.

The report states that if the loan is authorized and the expenditures are made, a further step will be taken to commit the city to the policy of caring for all its chronic cases at Long Island.

As the result of a study made by the Finance Commission early in 1926 at the request of Mayor Nichols the commission found that the proposed hospital building to be erected on Parker Hill in Roxbury would be expensive both to build and to operate, and that the top of Parker Hill was a poor site.

On the other hand the commission found that there existed a need for a chronic hospital on the mainland. It also found that for many of these patients Long Island was not a proper place.

CRIES OF BABY SAVE FAMILY FROM FIRE

Biddeford, Me., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—The cries of a baby from a smoke-filled room awoke Omer Coutier early today but not until he and four other members of his family had such a close call that they were obliged to flee from the burning house in their nightclothes.

The flames had gained such headway that the parents carrying the children were obliged to rush out into the snow in their nightclothes with the thermometer near the zero mark.

'I Kissed a Woman, Not Men,' Margery Defies Critics

Mrs. L. R. G. Crandon, otherwise "Margery," the famous Boston medium whom Harry Houdini "exposed" as a "fraud," was today made the subject of a new attack by two of her former disciples, Dr. J. B. Rhine and Mrs. Louisa E. Rhine. They brand "Margery" and her husband as "fakers" in an article in the Journal of Abnormal and Social Psychology. "Their whole game is a base and brazen trickery, carried out under the guise of spirit manifestation," the Rhines charge. They assert she was the "molasses to catch the flies." "Margery" bitterly assails the Rhines in retort, claiming they are publicity seekers.

MRS. L. R. G. CRANDON ("MARGERY")

"Margery," Boston medium, rose in her wrath today and denounced Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Rhine, her latest critics, accusing them of making a feeble effort, through publicity, to get 'on the map'."

In bulk and in detail, the medium, who is the wife of Dr. L. R. G. Crandon, denied the charges which Dr. and Mrs. Rhine made in the Journal of Abnormal and Social Psychology.

Referring to a kissing and embracing episode during a seance, which Dr. Rhine wrote about, Margery said: "That's all nonsense. My husband attends all my seances and I would have to be very rash to go around kissing. I have a vague remembrance of a recall of it. I revoked, no new licenses to be issued for a period of one year.

MALDEN GIRL'S ROMANCE ENDS IN DIVORCE

The final chapter in a war-time romance was written in Middlesex Probate Court today when Judge Arthur E. Brown granted a divorce decree for desertion to Mrs. Elizabeth B. Matthews of Main street, Malden, from Stephen C. Matthews, a former lieutenant in the Canadian Army Service Corps.

The old, old story of a pretty girl, an army uniform and not being good enough in the eyes of wealthy parents, was the gist of the story told by Mrs. Matthews in court. She said she met Matthews while he was serving as a patient member in the Red Cross at Shorncliffe (then near) London.

In relating the courtship Mrs. Matthews testified:

"He promised in writing a marriage settlement of $5,000, a large weekly allowance, a home and a automobile, together with a life of luxury." But they never materialized, she added.

Mrs. Matthews said she went to Montreal, where she was married to Matthews in St. James' Church on June 9, 1920. After the ceremony they went to live at her husband's parents' home. Five months and a few days after the wedding she testified that her husband left her and she has not seen him since.

She remained at the home a few days and then left, finally locating in Malden, where she is supporting herself and child by doing library work. Her husband's father, she said, is proprietor of a large wholesale men's furnishings firm in Montreal. Attorney Martin B. Flynn was counsel for Mrs. Matthews.

The agitated ministry of England was fingering the forgotten scraps of old military reports, looking for the name of Washington and trying hard to analyze his character.

NO MORE TOOTHACHES IN 10 YEARS! ALL SAY 'WOW!'

Toothache, most terrifying of childhood ills, will be unknown to the next generation if the efforts of the State Department of Health and the Massachusetts Dental Association in their new campaign meet with success.

Children will lose their fear of the dentist, bills for work on molars will be cut in half and thousands on thousands of teeth will be saved, it is declared.

Eighty-five per cent. of all molars come through the gums of little children with tiny cracks in the surface, called fisures, it is explained. Brushing will not prevent decay, warns Miss Eleanor B. Gallinger, consultant in dental hygiene for the State.

The ambition of the two departments is to educate parents into having dentists examine children's teeth as soon as they appear, and thus prevent later aches and pains.

The important stages are, whenever a new tooth appears, from two to three years of age, when the baby's first set of teeth is complete; from five to seven, when permanent six-year molars erupt; nine years, when permanent bicuspids erupt; 12 years, when permanent 12 molars erupt.

'MARGERY' HITS CRITICS; SAYS THEY 'FAKE'

was a woman friend from New York whom I kissed, and I had a perfect right to do so."

"Dr. Rrine came to me as a perfect stranger and he was not, as he claims, a supporter of me for a time. His article was rejected by the magazine published by the American Society for Psychic Research, and the editor of the publication that finally accepted it is one of a group of Harvard men who have previously called my seances crooked.

"The American Society for Psychic Research, after receiving his article, came and made an investigation and they reported his charges absolutely without foundation.

"He charges that the wire which bound my hands during the seance was slipped up my wrists so that I had use of my hands, but he neglects to state that the wire was sealed on me with court-plaster and he did the sealing himself.

"The same holds true for the ringing of the bell in the bell box. Dr. Rhine held the box himself. His claim that I rang it is a strange statement from a scientific man.

"The committtee from the American Society for Psychical Aesearch took especial pains to prevent me from doing what Dr. Rhine claims I did, and they were satisfied that the seance was perfectly legitimate and honest."

"WALTER" PRAYS.

The seance described by Dr. Rhine took place with Margery seated in a glass cabinet, her feet tied with picture wire to eyescrews in the floor, her hands projecting through openings in the side and tied with wire to other screws and a collar which encircled her nect fastened with rope to the back of the big cabine.

First, a tall-handled flower basket was levitated about the cabinet and some wooden letters it contained were named and tossed on the floor. Then the medium identified various objects which the sisters placed in the basket as it was passed around the circle.

Finally a megaphone was manipulated insides the cabinet and a basket with luminous bands on it was knocked from a shelf within the cabinet to the floor.

"Walter," the "spirit control," recited the Lord's Prayer through a voice machine, rang a bell and raised and lowered a small weight balance.

11TH STUDENT DIES SUICIDE

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 7 (I.N.S.).—The number of college students who have committed suicide this year stood at eleven today with the tragic death of J Morgan Derr, Jr., of this city, twenty-year-old sophomore at the University of Rochester.

Derr ended his life with a bullet from a 22-calibre rifle, in the same manner as his classmate, chum and fraternity brother, Rigby Wile, who shot himself in New York.

Despondency over continued ill health was believed today to have been the cause of Derr's suicide. According to his father, J. Morgan Derr, the youth had been in poor health for fifteen years, suffering from pneumonia attacks during that time.

PICK JURY FOR SECOND TRIAL OF DAUGHERTY

New York, Feb. 7.—The second trial of Harry M. Daugherty, former Attorney-General of the United States under President Harding, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, got under way in Federal Court here today before Judge John C. Knox.

The two defendants are charged with conspiracy to defraud the government "of their fair and unbiased services" through the illegal return of $7,000,000 in seized enemy-alien property to German interests through the Society Suisse Pour Valeur de Metaux.

Just before court opened, the two defendants strolled about, shaking hands with newspaper men who had worked on the previous trial which resulted in a jury disagreement.

Daugherty looked tired and worn, but said the infection in his blind eye, from which he has been suffering, was improved. He was represented by Max D. Steur, who was his counsel, during the first trial; but Colonel Miller, has changed his lawyer, now being represented by Aaron Sapiro of Chicago and San Francisco, instead of by Colonel William Rand.

Wrk of selecting a jury, which is expected to take considerable time, was immediately beg in, Judge Knox questioning prospective talesmen.

WOMAN IS HELD IN MYSTERY STABBING

White Charles Carlen of Winthrop was on the danger list at Boston City Hospital today, suffering from knife wounds sustained in a Back Bay suite, Lillian F. Howe was arraigned in Roxbury Court.

She pleaded not guilty, and the case was continued until February 21. It was alleged she and Carlen had lived at a Huntington avenue address since January, under the names of "Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Connelly."

In the meantime Carlen is being treated for stab wounds over the heart and on the left hand. He steadfastly maintains the wounds were self-inflicted. Police say the stabbing was done with a paring knife.

VICTIM OUT ON BAIL.

Carlen at present is out on bail in connection with an alleged attack on Thomas Rafferty, 25, a salesman of Parsons street, Allston. The police claim Carlen attacked Rafferty in Cambridge with a pocket knife. The latter is still in the Cambridge Relief Hospital. Two weeks ago it was feared he would die. It is believed now he will recover.

The police of the Back Bay station called at the Huntington avenue flat, upon advice of Dr. James B. Thornton of Huntington avenue, who was called to treat Carlen's wounds. The doctor told the police that when he arrived he found Carlen on the floor in a semiconscious condition. He kept mumbling, "Don't say a word, don't tell anybody what has gone on here."

Because of the serious nature of his wounds, the police ambulance rushed the wounded man to City Hospital.

According to the police Miss Howe has remained reticent about what transpired in the apartment. Sergeant Frank McNabb, in charge of the investigation, found a small paring knife.

one be gained regarding his affairs will be investigated in the hope some definite facts may be learned that will justify the authorities in making a direct accusation.

Investigators believe, although they are not certain, he is the man who was to have taken Maybelle to a dance the night she was killed. Suspicion has pointed to the unidentified escort from the time authorities began curious to know why he never came forward to admit his "date" with the girl. They said.

Two Dedham chums of Maybelle Madigan, Evans and Myra McKinnon, told the police the youth they suspect of some knowledge of the crime was a caller one evening at Maybelle's home and that Maybelle expressed both dislike and fear when speaking of him.

two additional regiments of Marines, totaling 2,100 men, for service in China.

Transports will be drawn from Nicaragua and Pacific coast stations to carry these men to the Shanghai area if needed.

The identical note containing the Shanghai neutrality proposal, which the Tuchun, Chiang Kai-shek and Sun Chuang-Fang, was couched in diplomatic terms and contained no threat as to what action this country would take in the event of its rejection. It is known, however, that the request was not intended to be an empty gesture.

The only alternative this government has, in the event of rejection, is the landing of troops for protection of its Nationals. This step would be futile, Far East observers point out, unless all the Powers united to make it effective.

Thereafter from Washington it is intimated that the United States already has secretly agreed to take part in a joint intervention, although the existence of a secret compact has been officially denied several times.

Shanghai Crisis Looms as Battle Rages Southward

Shanghai, Feb. 7 (A.P.)—Tension increased in Shanghai today as the city, now crowded with foreign refugees, awaited news from the battle front south of here and studied a report that the attacking Cantonese army would not attempt to take the city by force.

Whether the latter report is a promise that the Cantonese will abandon plans to drag it into the ever expanding southern territory or whether it is an offer to accept the suggestion of American Secretary of State Kellogg that the foreign settlement here be exempted from hostilities was not made known.

Britain Seizes Schools as Barracks for Troops

Hong Kong, Feb. 7 (A.P.)—As another step toward concentration of British forces in China, arrangements were completed today for taking over two large schools here and in Kowloon as additional military hospitals.

The Peninsular Hotel building at Kowloon and the Hoi Tong mills at Junk Bay, will be used to quarter part of the troops which will arrive shortly.

Report Russians Mobilize on Manchurian Border

Pekin, Feb. 7 (A.P.)—Marshal Chang Tso-Lin's chief of staff, Yang Yun-Ling, has telegraphed insistently from Mukden urging his chief to return there immediately. One reason is believed to be persistent reports of Soviet troop concentration on the Manchurian frontier.

Reports of such troop movements have reached Pekin from numerous sources.

QUIZ OFFICER IN ATTACK ON WHITE GIRL

An attack on a white girl early today in the rear of a Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury, house, was given to the police today as basis for a long questioning of a colored patrolman by Captain Richard Fitzgerald of the Dudley street station.

The policeman, attached to the Bastion force for six years, was questioned at length, just before twelve persons, described as witnesses, were also interrogated.

According to Captain Fitzgerald, no suspension has come and no charges have been preferred.

The assault was alleged to have taken place at the rear of a house in the four hundreds of Blue Hill avenue and the white girl is declared to have broken on her body and arms as a result.

A nearby physician treated the girl, who is understood to live either in the house indicated or in a house near by.

Dr. Nathaniel S. Levinton of Blue Hill avenue as stated as was the man who telephoned the police at 2 a. m. yesterday.

The doctor said he made the call of the Florida keys.

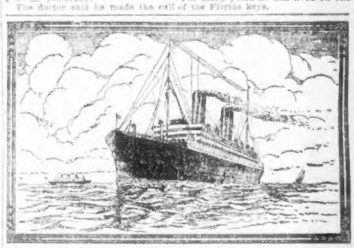

Insanity Threatens Whole Human Race, Says Pastor

Hartford, Ct., Feb. 7 (A.P.)—Evolution has developed the mentality of man to such a degree that his nervous system will not stand the strain, and all humanity may some time go insane, Rev. Albert C. Grier of the Church of the Truth, New York, told a large gathering at the meeting of the New Thought Society.

The pastor said, however, that if man were to cultivate his spiritual side he would somehow or other avoid the catastrophe. This spiritual development or else the degeneracy of the race through insanity will be the next step in evolution, Rev. Grier said.

"Guilty" ~ How Alton Died ~ By Jean McDonough

"ALTON TIGHTENED HIS GRIP around my throat until I could hardly breathe. Unless I did something quickly I felt that he would strangle me. I summoned all my strength and suddenly wrenched one hand free. I drew my arm back and let it fly blindly. The blow struck Alton's jaw, his head shot back, his eyes closed and he dropped limply to the floor. I stood back ready to give him more. He rose slowly."

"HE WAS UNSTEADY ON HIS feet. He drew his hands up in front of him in a defensive position and hesitatingly walked over toward me. I got ready to fight again. Suddenly he reeled—a low moan of pain escaped from his lips—and he crumpled across a chair. "Damn you, Dorland," he muttered. Those were his last words. He never spoke again.

(Copyright, 1927, by The Hall Syndicate, Inc.)

"THEN HIS BODY DROOPED—his fingers loosened their grip on the chair—and he slipped to the floor. As he dropped his head struck the massive leg of a large table. That's what killed him, Edwards! That's how he fractured his skull,' Dorland began to whimper. 'Believe me, Edwards, when I say his death was an accident. . . . I didn't go there to kill him.' I tried to comfort and console this poor man who was going to meet death.

"FINALLY I GOT HIM TO GO ON with his account of the murder. 'I bent down to see if Alton was really dead,' he continued. 'I thought his heart had stopped beating. But I wasn't sure. My first thought was to get a doctor. I was about to rush for the telephone when I heard the sound of footsteps on the stairs. The coward in me kept warning me to leave quickly. I grabbed my hat and coat and made my way to the window.'" Continued tomorrow.)

liquor now sold is poisonous, even doctors cannot be sure that prescriptions calling for rum will not poison the patient.

It is unsatisfactory for the bootlegger's customer, and a bright spot that you might look for is lacking. Saloons of the old kind are gone, but young people, boys and girls, drink whiskey now, as they never drank it in old days, and when bootleg whiskey shall have killed off the old bootleg customers, a new crop will be coming along.

YOU REMEMBER that we were invited and urged into the League of Nations, because that League would substitute sweet reasonableness for war.

What about China? What has the League done there? Members of the League—Britain, France, Italy—are sending warships, men, arms, ammunition, to China, to protect their "rights" in the good old way. Have any of them asked the League's permission to do this?

JULES REGNIER, young Frenchman, won $10,000 at Monte Carlo in ten minutes, and that "win" of $1,000 a minute is called a record. It may be at the roulette table, not at trente et quarante, where the limit is higher, and one might win $10,000 between two murmurings of the croupier's les cartes passent.

WHILE one player is a moment of passing chance wins $1,000 a minute, one hundred others lose $10,000. No one ever wins in the long run. That young Frenchman wins $10,000 "between cocktails," then saunters out to dress for dinner with his easily collected 255,000 francs, as the gambling house press agent tells it. Next time, or a little later, he may saunter out to blow out his brains before dinner. That also happens.

FIREMEN and engineers on twenty-seven important railroads have won an increase of 7½ per cent. in wages as a result of arbitration. Roads and men accept the decision.

That is an improvement on the old way of fighting it out in a long, destructive strike, sometimes including the blowing up of round-houses, etc.

THIS DECISION means that 31,000 men will earn $5,000,000 more each year, a trifle more than $162 each on the average, or 64 cents a day.

That is not much, considering the cost of living, and the work the man do—and, anyhow, the Interstate Commerce Commission will make the public repay the $5,000,000 a year to the roads if they need it.

GREAT CORPORATIONS, whose peace of mind depends, to some extent, at least on public approval and contented workers, show intelligence when they avoid fights and consent to share profits. There is enough for owners and workers, with intelligent management.

THE NEW prayer book, with many changes, arranged by bishops of the Church of England will be promulgated today. It is predicted that the new wording will come closer to the ideas of the Catholic Church. Although modernism will find the bride no longer promising to obey, the cynic will say it does not matter, since she does not obey either way. Prayers for the dead may be included in the new ritual.

Whatever the changes, they will probably cause more discussion in Great Britain than in Heaven.

THE RUMANIAN government is moving troops, fortifying doubtful places to forestall any outbreak in favor of Prince Carol. That Prince, oldest son of the King, wants the throne and thinks no trifling princely vagaries should prevent. Some of his relatives have other plans.

Later the Russian government, growing stronger, richer, better balanced every day, may decide that no Rumanian king is necessary.

"A favorite silk evening dress of mine needed freshening before I could wear it again. I happened to be out of Lux at the time and thoughtlessly decided another soap might do! I washed my precious dress so carefully—and the soap ruined it! When I showed it to my sister and told her what had happened, she threw up her hands and said, 'Never, never risk your clothes again. You should always keep plenty of Lux on hand just as I do.' I've certainly learned my lesson—and now I buy a half dozen packages at a time!"

"Skiing is a hobby with me, so naturally I take great pride in having my skiing clothes always in the best condition. Just before I left to join some friends at a house party up north I discovered that my favorite sweater looked rather dingy and unattractive. There wasn't time to send it to be cleaned! A friend assured me that I could make it fresh as new in almost no time just by washing it in Lux. I did and I wish you could see it! It didn't shrink a particle—came out beautifully soft and fluffy. No one at the house party guessed it wasn't new."

Dear Anne:

The ground hog came out and saw his sh[illegible], but no doubt if Winter stays six weeks longer with Spring blooming gayly in every window, and bursting forth in all the shops.

Take Evelyn's

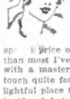

For instance. 'Twould be a bold Winter that dared invade that flower garden of Spring gowns, although she's well prepared with fine French [illegible] and rayon twills, most stunningly tailored, with pleats, buttons, and modish [illegible], for $3.95. And many a wise mother and daughter is investing in them for the raw March days and the [illegible] sport season. But the dainty georgettes hanging there—lustrous flat crepes in every [illegible] so soft, so graceful and utterly feminine. For $12.95, most of them, and smart to the last [illegible]. Here's where girls can [illegible] out in a navy blue georgette, or look as lovely as the dawn in a soft rose crepe. Yes, Evelyn's, 8 Winter Street, is where hundreds of girls go for charming clothes at little cost.

But What

A mistake to plan for new dresses, when the foundation is out of repair. Your corset, my dear. That's what's the matter. How can you expect to look "tres chic" when the lines beneath are wrong? Mine. Merkin's the place to go for your custom-made corselette. And my, how wonderfully she does make them. Of the finest imported materials, fitted to you, yet coaxing your shape into the lines it should go. And the service which she gives with them—garments fitted until they are perfect, then kept so as [illegible] wish, with no extra charge at all. A tuck here, a new elastic there—all those thin[illegible] make for satisfaction. Madame Merkin is in room 416 of the Lawrence Building, corner of Tremont and West.

Then the Hat

Question comes in. So don't you think it would be well to go down to the Blue Bonnet Hat Shoppe, at 621 Washington Street? You see Visca is to be the thing, crocheted Visca—the silky straw which comes in hoods and is shaped and designed to each one personally. And the Blue Bonnet is making them up now at a special price of $13.50; much less than most I've seen. They design with a master technique, with a touch quite foreign, and it's a delightful place to go. We saw embroidered hats there which were beautiful, felts that were charming and some of these new Viscas already made up that were—well, they were bewitching and I know you're going to love them.

Nultra Cold Cream

Is something else that's essential to the happiness of us all. At least, all of us who've once used it and realize its power to cleanse, and purify the pores of our skins. It penetrates, Anne. It sinks down through the surface to the root of the trouble, and gets at the congestion beneath. In fact, it's a natural skin food, made of the purest materials after the formula of a physician who had a scientific and experienced knowledge of the needs of the skin. With the result that a "nultrified" skin is a young skin, a healthy, clean and happy skin, with every pore clear, every nerve relaxed and every tissue fed. Now that we're up town, we'd better drop into the Winchester Store, corner of Tremont and West, and buy a dollar jar.

And Speaking of Purity, have you seen the wonderfully fine quality of the pure Irish linen at the Seasonal Sales Company, 54 Chauncy street? I'm just beginning to feel acquainted with some of the glorious values there, and yet I find something new every time. This linen is as exquisite to the touch (especially if you love it) as chiffon velvet, or satin. In a close, firm weave, with that purity which only the best can have. And yet we bought hemstitched napkins at $1.40 for half a dozen; some 36" square for $1.75 each, and the dinner size napkins at 50c apiece. Scarves 36" long by 18" wide were 98c, and tray cloths 79c each; all hemstitched, mind you, and of this same beautiful quality. Why, I never saw such values in my life.

Quick, Anne, Come To Town

The Ambassador Lamp Shop is putting on the most stupendous reductions I've ever seen. You know the shop—up on the fifth floor of the Ambassador Building, 41 Winter Street; full of exquisite silk shades, great gorgeous pillows, tapestries and lamps. For two days, just Tuesday and Wednesday, these lovely things will be practically given away. Lamps, Anne, lamp shades, bases, frames and materials. Junior and bridge lamp stands formerly $18.75 and $25 now for $8.75. Each one with a marble base and metal shaft. Frames for only 89c which were $2 and $3. And beautiful georgette for $1.29 (regularly $1.75) a yard with free instruction for the making. And listen—choice imported pottery bases for table lamps, both Chinese and French, marked from $16.50 to $6.50, each one a splendid work of art. Dainty Dresden bases for $1.39 with Pierrette and Pierrot, crinoline ladies and mademoiselles of fashion. But wait—great glowing silken bridge lamp shades formerly $25 are going for $9.75, with a few $55 ones marked to $20. And tapestries, Anne, framed and unframed; the smaller ones 20x26 inches, others long panels, in scenes of the desert caravans, the hunt, ancient Mecca and English taverns—for $7.50. Then the pillows; the big satin davenport and frilly boudoir ones—oh, this is so inadequate—it doesn't half do justice to this great gorgeous opportunity. Fly, swim or walk, but come—that's all.

The Pajamas Have Come

At last! And how we have waited for those pajamas; for it's one of the biggest spring specials in the Talbot store, and I didn't want you to start buying pajamas for your men folks until you knew about them. Only they didn't arrive in time for me to warn you last week. Pajamas for $1.00 a suit, Anne; and really good ones, too. Can you imagine that? Madras pajamas with a poplin finish, in blue, lavender and tan, and about the biggest dollar's worth any store ever offered. They have silky white frogs and buttons firmly sewed on. They are cut full, long and generous, with seams most beautifully finished. And they are a wonderful buy for one dollar. The next quality is also of Madras; a very fine weave, and costs $1.35 a suit, three suits for $4.00, and comes in white as well as the other colors. For a real sporty garment, the one which our sombre men folk instinctively select, there is the $1.65 grade, which comes in various shades harmoniously combined with other various shades and adorned with frogs to match. But when we do the buying, Anne (and we're going to do it right now), we'll choose the figured and plain broadcloths, of the light but fine weave at $1.85 a suit, for these are the best quality of all.

St. Valentine's Day

Is one week off. Oh, memories of lacy treasures with cooing doves on the window casement framed with violets and flying cupids; and the fluttering hearts of school days! Dear old Saint Valentine's Day—we've never yet outgrown it, and we never fail to long for violets, when February 14th draws near. And that's why the shop of Penn, The Florist, 124 Tremont Street, looks like a huge valentine right now, with violets everywhere and great crimson boxes to hold them piled high on every shelf. Heart boxes which cost $4.00 when filled to the brim, ready to bring greetings of love, affection, and friendship, happy memories, and the exquisite gestures of courtesy to homes throughout the land. Or if violets do not seem to suit the personality of our lady-fair, there're baskets of sweet peas with handles of pussy willows at Penn's; pots of tulips ready to burst open their glorious globes of color, or hyacinths fragrant as the woods in May. Every flower is a valentine in February, for every flower says "The thought of you is dear to me," and that's what every woman wants to hear. So let's stir up the pot pourri of memory, the roses, violets and rosemary of romance and send fresh, fragrant and living flowers to our friends, violets artistically packed in the crimson heart boxes of Penn, the Florist, to symbolize St. Valentine's Day.

Let's Walk Now

Across the Common. Too far? Nonsense, no walk is too far unless your feet are failing, and if that's the case, you'd better investigate Dr. Scholl's care and treatment of the feet now being featured at Filene's in the toilet goods department. Dr. Scholl is an orthopedic specialist of world renown, who has perfected a method of scientific treatment and relief of every form of foot troubles; fallen arches, corns, callouses, weak ankles, run-over heels, misshapen toes and sensitive burning feet. He has a Foot-Eazer which gives a springy support to the arch and instep, a metatarsal support to relieve the fallen bones across the ball; a bunion reducer and salve, and pads designed to relieve and cure those ever annoying corns, callouses and bunions. Zino-pads, they are called, which cost but 35c a set. And he has also perfected a home treatment for the care of your feet which is marvelously effective in keeping them fresh, cool and free from pain. A foot soap, a powder and a balm, all packed together in one box for $1.00 complete. There's no need to suffer in silence, Anne, or patiently endure any discomfort when you can go right into Filene's and get exactly the support or pad you need to put your feet in a healthy, happy condition once more.

Flags Should Be Flying

And banners waving in the "Holeproof" department at Talbot's, 395 Washington Street, this week, for at last the time has come when the men folks can cash in on some of the 1927 values put out especially for them. Too long have all the favors gone to the ladies, they complained, and the demand grew louder and louder until now they, too, can get "Holeproof" socks of extra fine quality, at super-moderate prices. Here's all-silk socks of the regular 75c a pair quality, offered for 65c, three pair for $1.85. (And they say girls always have the best of it.) Here's extra heavy silk socks, of the purest thread silk, with mercerized heel, toe, top and sole for $1.00. Here are splendid silk faced socks, woven with pure thread silk over a firm mercerized yarn, for 50c a pair, three for $1.00. And here are fine cotton socks at 35c a pair, three for $1.00. All made with the famous Ex-Toe, the double reinforcement which gives triple wear over ordinary socks. All fashioned with the same care, the same expert skill as the hosiery of the fairer sex. In colors which follow the mode to the minute; black, navy blue, Miami, light gray and dark gray, Spa tan and white. Oh, yes, there's reason for the steady demand for "Holeproof" socks at Talbot's, and there's a double reason right now.

The Perfect Night Cream

Has come to me at last. It's the missing link in the complete care of the skin, the cream that creeps down into the tissues while we sleep and circulates gently among the pores. It's the Hilda Lee Bed Time Tissue Cream, one of the products perfected by Dr. Drew; a cream noted for its absolute purity. After your skin is made surgically clean, which is as clean as it can possibly be, you pat a little of this fragrant pinky night cream in and leave it until morning. And truly, the result is marvelous, astonishing and delightful. I wouldn't have believed that any cream could have made such a difference. All of the Hilda Lee products are popular, but somehow this Bed Time Cream fills a long wanted need. You can get it at the Meyer Jonasson Company, corner of Tremont and Boylston, for $1.50 a jar; a good generous jar which will take care of you for months to come. And they'll tell you, too, how pure, sweet and effective a cream it is.

Here's News

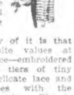

For us, my dear. Georgette and flat crepe dresses will be sold at Florence Daniels' Shop, room 75 of the Ambassador Building (41 Winter Street) for $15 for two brief and fleeting days only. For Tuesday and Wednesday she will let us have our loveliest Easter dresses at this price. So you'll see me soon in a darling georgette, with tiny tucks in big checks on the blouse and sleeves, with waves of knife pleating on the skirt and a deep girdle that is grace itself. I'll have a pin of brilliants at the neck, a flower of georgette at my shoulder and will be only $15 lighter in my purse. But it's a price that's here today and gone Thursday, for it's only offered as a reminder to old friends and an invitation to new, to come in and see what's what and why in the world of fashion.

Anne! Please

Powder your nose. Why don't you use a powder which stays on and gives you a fresh velvety finish all day? Get Mury's Caresse d'Amour at Meyer Jonasson Company (corner of Tremont and Boylston) and you'll have a face powder that blends in with your skin and clings softly and smoothly until you remove it. It's a delicate powder, with an exquisite fragrance of bouquet which lingers and delights, and comes in shades that miraculously give that peach glow and radiance to the skin. It comes in a beautiful box, straight from Paris, and costs $1.25. You'll want Mury's other preparations too, to follow the same odor throughout, and there's nothing finer than their toilet water, perfume, or their compacts and rouge.

You'll Save

Two to three dollars by going to Allyn's Dress Shop some time Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, on the newest of the new Spring dresses. And you know what smart, beautifully-made models they always carry. Yes, their $24.75 dresses will be $22, and the $16.50 ones will be $14 for these two days only.

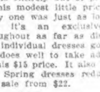

And the beauty of it is that they are exquisite values at their regular price—embroidered flat crepes, with tiers of tiny tucks, a bit of delicate lace and braided georgettes with the latest flares of fashion. There's a gorgeous georgette of Queen Marie blue with deep-set peasant sleeves embroidered in silver and blue waiting there for you. There are soft greens and tans, deep navy blues and lustrous blacks—up to size 44. Priced to $22 and to $14 in Allyn's Dress Shop, 5th floor of the Ambassador Building, 41 Winter Street, for Tuesday and Wednesday only.

But Don't Fail

To visit the Chic Gown Shoppe, in room 54 of the Ambassador Building (41 Winter), for they're reducing perfectly stunning $35 dresses to $15 for us especially for a very few days. And here's an example of what one can get there for this price. A black dinner dress with a chiffon velvet skirt, a black georgette blouse with medallions of velvet appliqued upon it with gold and black braid, and finished with a marvelous gold buckle. Truly a dress whose beauty, material and line is entirely out of proportion to this modest little price. And every one was just as lovely—in fact, it's an exclusive shop throughout as far as distinctive and individual dresses go, and a girl does well to take advantage of this $15 price. It also includes new Spring dresses reduced for this sale from $22.

What a Day

We've had. And what an evening of fun we're going to have. Too tired for it? No, a little weary perhaps, but Virozol Swedish Face Bath will refresh my skin as much as a twelve-hour sleep. A quick massage with the Almond Cream, then the Face Bath patted on with a bit of cotton, and all the poisons of fatigue and dust of the day disappear. Then out comes the color and glow of health, youth revives, my spirits respond, and I'm off again with all the bloom and velvet radiance of a two weeks' vacation. Oh, don't be without it, Anne. Go down to Plotkin Bros., 264 Boylston Street, and get a bottle of Virozol Swedish Face Bath for $1.25 and Virozol Almond Cream for $1.00 a jar.

MOROS CAPTURE U. S. COLLEGE GIRL PRINCESS

Manila, Feb. 7 (A.P.)—The adventure of Princess Tarhata Kiram, vivacious [illegible] of the Sultan of Sulu and [illegible] favorite wife of the rebellious [illegible] Tahil, and who recently frustrated the military plans of a whole [illegible] of the Philippine constabulary, has come to an inglorious [illegible].

A dispatch to the Manila Bulletin from [illegible] today said the daring Moro princess, abandoned by her [illegible], footsore, exhausted, contrite and ashamed, was picked up on the slopes of Mount Maligay, Jolo Island, and turned over to the authorities by another Moro chief.

Tahil, [illegible] Moro dignitary who recently [illegible] and defied the Philippine government by immuring himself in a fort on Jolo Island with 200 followers, now is hiding in the Kolo jungles, hated and hunted.

He is [illegible] by the Constabulary forces [illegible] and his recent flier in revolutionary activity, coupled with his desertion of the princess, is said to have turned the sentiment of his people against him. Most of his followers have surrendered. It was predicted that he would be killed.

Princess Tarhata, an odd mixture of East and West, recently married Tahil. She is a graduate of the University of Illinois. On returning to the Moro kingdom she retained the mannerisms of the West—wore short skirts and bobbed hair and became the first flapper of Moro land.

But the call of tradition and the influence of the tropics wore away the veneer of a strange civilization and she gave them up when she entered Tahil's harem.

A bride of only a few weeks she followed Tahil when he rebelled and entered his fortification. The regiment of constabulary which had been sent to put down the rebellion stopped short when within attacking distance, for the attack might have meant death or injury to the princess.

Harm to Moro royalty would have brought down the wrath of the whole Mohammedan tribe, which, even when at peace with the government is none too friendly.

For several days the might and will of the militia was balked, then Tahil and the princess and a few followers fled from the fort, leaving the majority of the rebels to the military, the constabulary attacked, killing several women and capturing the others.

Since then the search has been going on for Tahil.

Opera Premiere on Feb. 17

New York, Feb. 7.—An American opera, entitled "The King's Henchman" in three acts, composed by Deems Taylor, music critic, will have its premiere on Feb. 17, according to an announcement by the Metropolitan Opera Company.

RAPID TRANSIT VOTE TAKEN BY HUB C. OF C.

Members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce are participating in a mail vote on the question of adopting a new policy for financing rapid transit extensions in Metropolitan Boston. The printed ballots, mailed to members, must be received at the office of the secretary at 5 o'clock Thursday.

The ballot contains two questions for a "yes" and "no" vote. No. 1 is:

"Shall a new policy be adopted with regard to extensions and improvements in the rapid transit facilities of Boston and the surrounding district, so that a portion of the cost will be borne either by special assessments on real estate benefited or general taxation?"

Question No. 2 is:

"If you vote 'yes' on the above, do you favor raising such amounts, (A) By special assessment on real estate specifically benefited; (B) By general taxation?"

A report recently submitted to the Legislature by the Division of Metropolitan Planning suggests certain extensions of the transit facilities in Boston, including a through rapid transit service with multiple unit trains instead of trolley cars from Maverick square, East Boston, to some point on Commonwealth avenue near Harvard street, Allston, and from Lechmere square, East Cambridge, to a point on Huntington avenue, near the Harvard Medical School.

The report also recommends that the estimated cost be met partly from assessments levied on real estate located in territory especially benefited by the extensions. It is believed that an annual payment of five per cent. would retire the debt in from 30 to 40 years.

PAT NEFF, FORMER TEXAS GOVERNOR, ON RAIL BOARD

Washington, Feb. 7 (A.P.)—Pat Morris Neff, former Governor of Texas, was nominated today to be a member of the Railroad Labor Board of Mediation, succeeding Carl Williams, resigned.

BISHOPS PLAN TO CUT OUT BRIDAL 'OBEY'

London, Feb. 7 (A.P.)—Elimination of the word "obey" from the Church of England marriage service is one of the changes suggested by the House of Bishops which has long been studying the revision of the Episcopalian Book of Common Prayer.

The bishops' proposals, made public today also provide for the elimination of the word "endow" from the man's side of the service, substituting "and all my worldly goods I with thee share."

These proposals, among others, were presented at the Church House in Westminster at a convocation of the two great synods of the English Church—those of Canterbury and York.

The Archbishops of Canterbury and York, outlining the proposals, emphasized that they are "permissive" only and shall not be used arbitrarily without the good will of the people.

Today's session assumed historic importance since it is the first time in several centuries that the two great synods of Canterbury and York have met together.

Men's Suits should be refreshed every two weeks. It pays in the long run.

Cream Cheese Is Important in Diet of Growing Children

Every day brings new additions to our enlightenment about food and nutrition. Especially in child feeding is this knowledge of the elements necessary for bone and growth of vital importance.

We are told that sufficient supply of calcium in children's diet is essential for straight bones and strong teeth, and that sturdy growth is not possible without a sufficient amount of the mysterious vitamin A.

Cream cheese has come to be recognized as containing these two fundamentals together in a form suitable for children. Give it as a spread for crackers or crackers, as a change from meat or eggs or on sandwiches with jam or jelly. Cream cheese of a recognized brand made of fresh cream and whole milk pasteurized is the choice of doctors and intelligent mothers.

A Recipe of Repute

Here's a recipe with a history. A gentleman down on the South Shore, who prides himself on his cooking, tells us that he has stolen a march on what we thought was a new method of cookery—the blanketing of steak, chops, fish, etc., with prepared mustard. It seems he has long been famous for his own individual and original method of cooking and serving a steak. It sounded good, so good, that we tried it out in the Martha Lee Kitchen and hasten to pass it along to you with our official O. K.

Country Gentleman's Steak

Select a second cut of top of the round steak and broil as desired. Cut the steak into strips one-half inch wide, leaving them joined underneath so that the shape of the steak is not disturbed. Over the surface spread a thick layer of butter, letting the butter mingle with the steak juices. Over this a generous layer of mild prepared mustard—about one-eighth or one-quarter of an inch thick. On top of this comes a seasoning of a thick English meat sauce. By this time most of the butter and mustard will have melted and run down along the platter. With a spoon work up the sauce, pouring it back and forth over the steak several times. Serve two strips of steak to a plate and two spoonfuls of sauce to each.

MANY WELL-FED PEOPLE SLOWLY STARVING

Without knowing it many people who think themselves well fed are straying from the path to abundant health. Not for lack of sufficient food, but through failure to eat enough of those foods which Nature intends us all to eat.

Vegetables, for example. Only too often people fail to eat enough of them. In vegetables are stored the mineral salts so essential to proper growth and renewal of tissues, bones, teeth and muscles.

A well-made soup containing vegetables is one of the richest sources of these important elements. In soups, no mineral salts are allowed to boil away, they remain to enrich and invigorate. No longer need the making of an appetizing vegetable soup mean a half day's work in the kitchen. Excellent ready-prepared vegetable soups are made from invigorating beef broth, barley, macaroni, herbs and seasonings. Added to this there is, in the brand I know, 15 different vegetables including baby lima beans, sweet peas, green tomatoes, potatoes, celery, carrots, turnips, cabbage, okra, peppers, parsley and onion. From all of which you receive the full benefit of the mineral salts stored in them by Nature to give you health and vigor.

Vegetable soup is an ideal luncheon or supper dish. It has the real nourishment you need at the evening or noonday meal. It tastes so good and is so invigorating that you always welcome it even when you don't like eating a hearty meal. At dinner time it makes a real part of the longer meal and is something that you can let children revel in often, it is so wholesome.

SPICE CUP CAKES

These are excellent served hot with whipped cream or cold as cakes for dessert.

Sift one cup and two tablespoons of bread flour with one teaspoon of soda, one-half teaspoon each of ginger, cloves, nutmeg, cinnamon and one-eighth teaspoon of salt. Mix one-third cup of butter with one-half cup of flour. Add one well-beaten egg, one-third cup of molasses, then the spiced flour and last of all, slowly a half cup of hot water. Beat well, half fill buttered and floured muffin pans and bake twenty minutes in a moderate oven.

A Teaspoon of Borax added to it will keep starch from freezing out of clothes in Winter.

The Why's of Milk Cornerstone of Health

The chief value of milk in the diet is to correct the deficiencies of other foods. That is why it is often called a protective food.

Milk is really the most satisfactory single article of food. That is why there is no effective substitute for it. Milk is not only essential to the growth of children but to the health and vigor of adults. This is why we preach a quart of milk a day for the child and not less than a pint for each adult. A diet short of milk is generally short in lime needed for bone building.

Did you know that because of its wide use as a food, milk is more closely supervised in the United States than any other article of diet? That is why we Americans are fortunate in having the most wholesome milk supply in the world.

Have Cyclone Cellar Handy When Father Fixes Balky Drain

"Let me at it," says the handy man of the house with perfect assurance. "I'll have it open for you in no time!"

No time is right. Twenty minutes of violent prodding and poking, much splashing—maybe—whisper it—cussing and perhaps partial success.

Why not save the wear and tear on Father's temper and vocabulary next time drains are clogged by using a simple powder that will boil and bubble its way through the most stubborn pipe obstruction, dissolving it completely? Used each week, it will keep every drain in the house sweet, and clean and open, for it completely scours the un-get-at-able insides of pipes and it cannot harm enamel, porcelain or plumbing.

This magic powder does other things, too. It will remove burnt grease from frying pans, iron pots and glass oven ware. It purifies refrigerator drains, clears out down-spouts and cleans oily garage floors, deodorizing and disinfecting the garbage can. It's the handy man in millions of homes today, mine included.

FEAST REPLACES FAMINE IN KORNER KITCHEN

Thanks be—a fresh supply of gingerale has arrived at the Martha Lee Korner Kitchen, 92 Summer street. For three days our Kelvinator was as bare of my favorite beverage as Mother Hubbard's Cupboard and they tell me that my disposition appeared to suffer. You have seen those people who growl around until they have had their morning coffee. A Gingerale famine seems to have the same effect on me.

All joking aside, I never realized how I had come to depend on a refreshing glass of sparkling gingerale in the middle of the morning rush and again after a kitchen talk fest in the afternoon. (Helen says we'll draw the veil over the in-between sips) until it was among the missing.

If when you next call at the Korner Kitchen you think I look particularly like the cat after it has devoured the yellow songster, you'll know that I've just imbibed. And don't forget that there is a bottle waiting for YOU in our Kelvinator.

Speaking of gingerale, here's a specially good gingerale fruit salad sent to us by Mrs. G. W. Lowe, 41B Holman street, Attleboro, Mass.

GINGERALE FRUIT SALAD

Soak 2 tbs. Gelatine in 2 tbs. cold water and dissolve in 1-3 cup boiling water, then add ¼ cup lemon juice, 2 tbs. sugar, a few grains of salt and one cup gingerale. Let stand until mixture begins to set then fold in 1-3 cup malaga grapes, skinned, seeded and cut in halves, 1-3 cup of celery cut in slices, 1-3 cup apple pared and cut into pieces, 2 tbs. canton ginger cut up small, 4 tbs. canned pineapple cut in cubes.

Turn into a border mould, chill, when ready to use place on serving dish. Place in the centre small dish filled with cream or a mayonnaise dressing. Any combination of fruit may be used instead of the ones given.

P. S.—I have a collection of 24 dandy recipes calling for gingerale if you would like to have me send them to you. Some of them are world beaters.

Before Hanging Out Clothes, wet hands with vinegar and dry them well. This keeps them from chapping. A little cornstarch rubbed on them is helpful, too.

BOSTON BROWN BREAD

Mix thoroughly 1 cup whole wheat or graham flour, 1 cup corn meal, 1 cup rye meal or ground rolled oats, 5 teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Add ¾ cup of molasses to 1 1-3 cups milk and add to dry ingredients. Beat thoroughly and put into greased molds 2-3 full. Steam 3 hours; remove covers and bake in moderate oven (400 degrees F.) until top is dry. Makes 2 medium-size or 3 small loaves.

The Safest Way to Cure a Cold

A chill a sniffle, a cough or sneeze are danger signs of a cold beginning. Check it overnight with hot lemonade.

Take a glassful after a good hot bath. Then cover warm in bed. You'll perspire freely, and that's just what you need.

In the morning, if you've caught it thus in time, the cold is usually gone.

Prevent possible pneumonia or the "flu" in this simplest, surest, safest way.

Just squeeze the juice of one California lemon in a glass or cup of hot water—add honey or sugar if you wish.

The tart, juicy and practically seedless kind are California lemons, the kind Martha Lee uses in her noon time tea, snatched surreptitiously behind the scenes in the Martha Lee Kitchen.

THIS WINTER SALAD MEETS INNER URGE FOR SPRING VEGETABLES

BANANA CHARLOTTE

One-half package of gelatine
One-half cup of cold water.
One-half cup of boiling water.
Juice of one lemon.
One-half cup of sugar.
One cup of banana rice.
White of three eggs or
One pint whipped cream.

Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes, add hot water, sugar, lemon juice. When cool enough to thicken, beat in one pint whipped cream or the white of eggs beaten stiff.

Line a mold with lady fingers or sections of banana dipped in lemon juice to keep white. Pour in charlotte mixture and place in refrigerator until ready to use.

SPRING SALAD IN WINTER TIME

Just about this time of year we begin to pine for Spring vegetables. But alas and alack! Southern and California fresh fruits and vegetables are painfully steep in price as yet.

Our feature recipe today, however, meets the Spring vegetable urge as economically, as deliciously. Its foundation is a fresh fruit lemon gelatin of heavy richness. Dissolve one package of this in one and one-half cups of boiling clear meat stock or bouillon. Add one-quarter cup of vinegar or lemon juice and one teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-half teaspoon onion juice. Cool. When it begins to thicken, add two cups cooked vegetables well drained. Mould in large or individual moulds. Serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise. Serves six.

These pure fruit gelatines are never absent from my pantry shelves. For salads or desserts they are unsurpassed.

Here's a tiny tip. If you will mix your fresh fruit gelatin powder first with one cup of hot water and then with one cup of cold, your dessert will harden in one-half the usual time. Gelatine is especially important in the kiddies' diet. It contains many elements of growth essential for active little bodies and brains, not to mention the ease of digestion.

Of course, you demand the purest and best for your darlings and you can welcome the certainty of this purity with delight.

HAM BAKED WITH PINEAPPLE

Virginia. Ham is never better than when baked with Hawaiian pineapple. Use slices of ham one-inch thick. They must be soaked in warm water for at least an hour before using. Then drain them and sprinkle with flour. Melt a little fat in the baking pan and brown the ham in it. Then pour a cup of crushed or grated pineapple and a half cup of water over each slice of ham and bake slowly until tender, probably an hour. Remove to platter and pour the remainder of the pineapple around it.

ADD TO HEALTH WITH BRAN

Fluffy muffins, griddlecakes, puddings—all take on new and healthful properties when you add a handful of all-bran to the recipe.

Doctors stress the need of more bran or bulk in the diet and all-bran supplies this bulk in generous quantities since it is 100 per cent. bran. It produces results no part-bran product can equal.

It is far better to use in cooking than the ordinary tasteless bran, its delicious flavor improves any dish.

Right here, I am going to share a secret with you. For two weeks now, I have supplemented my frugal coffee-toast breakfast with one of the individual portion boxes of all-bran served with top milk and a sprinkling of sugar, and already I have begun to feel the benefits.

Try all-bran in your waffles, broils and dressings. Sprinkle a little in with your hot cereals or serve it plain with milk or cream and add crushed fruits or honey. If you'll see that your family eat at least two tablespoons apiece of bran in some form every day, you'll find you've solved one of the vital health problems.

BRAN MUFFINS

2 tablespoons shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup all-bran
1 cup flour
½ tsp. soda.
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
1 cup sour milk

Cream shortening and sugar, add egg. Sift flour, soda, baking powder and salt. To creamed mixture, add all-bran, then milk, alternately, with dry ingredients. Pour into greased muffin tins. Bake in moderate oven (370° F.) for 20 minutes in smallest muffin tins.

Pendulum Swings to Potato Starch

Remember the potato flour that grandmother always kept on her pantry shelf from which she always made her famous sponge cakes? The pendulum has swung back to these good old days and the modern cook is using potato flour, now called potato starch, in many of her recipes. The only difference is that when grandmother used 10 or a dozen eggs, the modern housewife makes her cake with only four, thusly—

POTATO STARCH SPONGE CAKE: Yolks of four eggs, ¾ cup of sugar, white of 4 eggs, ¾ cup Potato Starch, 1 level teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ tablespoon lemon juice. Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar gradually while beating constantly; then add whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Mix and sift dry ingredients and cut and fold into mixture. Add lemon juice, turn into a buttered and floured cake pan, and bake in a moderate oven twenty-five minutes.

DESSERTS ESSENTIAL IN CHILD'S DIET

Desserts are an essential part of your child's diet because they satisfy his craving for sweets. This longing for sweets is the natural expression of the child's need for energy-producing foods. Thus the choice of the right dessert is very important.

There is satisfaction in knowing that the tapioca desserts your children like so much are really good for them. Tapioca is one of the most easily digested of all carbohydrates, and affords an immediate supply of energy with very little tax on the digestive system. Dieticians recommend tapioca as a perfect vehicle for the consumption of milk and eggs—the two eggs which every child should have each day. And tapioca combines ideally with healthful and necessary fruits.

Tapioca desserts are simple and wholesome; they are properly balanced to afford adequate food value in the child's dietary, where they may serve as the main part of a luncheon or supper. Yet they are so delicious that they meet with hearty approval when served to the entire family. And grown-ups as well as children need the balanced nourishment that tapioca desserts afford.

Tapioca also make delicious soups and entrees that contribute wholesome nourishment and welcome variety to the menu. Let me send you a really valuable recipe book "Adding Variety to the Menu," beautifully illustrated in color.

CAN OF PEACHES MAKES WINTER PUDDING

Beat three egg yolks slightly; add one-half cup sugar, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla and one cup of milk. Cut baker's bread of fine grain in one-third inch slices and shape them to fit a mold. Let the slices of bread stand in the egg and milk mixture until well softened. Butter the mold well and sprinkle with finely chopped nuts. Then lay in alternate layers of softened bread and sliced peaches. Cover the mold with buttered paper and steam in a pan of water in the oven until firm. It will take about one-half hour. Cool a little before turning from the mold. Remove from the platter and pour Peach Sauce round it. This is made by draining the liquid from a can of peaches, adding one-half of the peaches and cooking slowly for 20 minutes. Rub through a sieve and flavor with a teaspoon of almond extract and one-half teaspoon of vanilla.

Princess Boncompagni Mrs. Ayer's Guest

By BETTY ALDEN

THE PRINCESS MARGARET BONCOMPAGNI, in a mezzanine box on Saturday for "Lucia" at the Opera, met the many glasses focussed in her direction wearing the smartest of fur wraps and the Frenchiest of chapeaux, just as is to be expected, naturally, from one of her cosmopolitan position in the social scheme, whose wardrobe may be gathered at first hand from the shops of masters of the art of fine dressing. She was in Mrs. Nathaniel Farwell Ayer's box, the guest of a circle of [illegible]-Draper relatives doing the honors, Mrs. Ayer having sailed (on Friday) aboard the Aquitania on one of her frequent trans-Atlantic crossings.

PRINCESS BONCOMPAGNI'S fur wraps combining seal and beaver, and her small black satin hat having a brilliant rhinestone ornament were extremely becoming to her radiant fair coloring. Mrs. Claire Draper, in [illegible] wrap and [illegible] hat, and Mrs. Preston Brown in seal wrap, were with the Princess in this very interesting group that included Major General Preston Brown and Mr. Clair Draper.

THE NAME OF DRAPER figures prominently in opera doings, the handsome spouse of [illegible] Draper of the [illegible] entertaining brilliantly in connection with Chicago songsters' visit here. On Wednesday, before the matinee she is having a large luncheon in honor of the Princess Boncompagni and will have two boxes of guests to hear Garden in Carmen. Mrs. Draper's large box party on Friday was a brilliant operatic prelude to the Senior Supper Dance, to which all the smart "Seniors" went on after hearing Tristan. Mrs. Draper's gowns and Mrs. Draper's jewels are unusually lovely adornments for an unusually stunning young matron.

THE PRESENCE of Miss Mary Garden and Miss Geraldine Farrar, as box guests at the same operatic performance was a dramatic coincidence that electrified the house on Thursday at the premiere of "The Jest." Seldom have two more world-renowned stars graced the mezzanine at the same time. Miss Garden had her mother and Vanni-Marcoux in a stage box, where this star adored of Bostonians held her usual court during intermissions.

VANNI-MARCOUX, the new baritone, came in for much attention from leveled opera glasses, and from greetings of the favored few having access to Miss Garden's box. Mme. Farrar's presence in Mr. Ellis's box went quite unheralded for a time and it was not until the magic news of her presence went round the house that Bostonians recognized in the handsome gray haired matron, richly jeweled, their favorite "Jerry" of other days.

BOX HOLDERS in the gorgeous circle of the Mezzanine tonight are Mrs. John L. Grandin, who has No. 47; the George E. Warrens in their No. 35; Mrs. Hinckley Welch in her box with its deeply upholstered chairs and general air of comfort; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Conley in No. 31; the Hugh Bancrofts in No. 43; Mr. and Mrs. M. Graeme Haughton in No. 41 (the Haughtons are of those devotees who adore opera for its own sake quite apart from opera as a sartorially embellished picture); Mr. and Mrs. John L. Saltonstall, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Francis Donovan, Jr., Mrs. Frank C. Paine, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jackson Holmes, Mrs. William Gordon Means, the Wendell Endicotts, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Flanders, Mrs. Charles Goddard Weld, the Quincy Shaws and Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKay Frost.

MRS. HINKLEY WELCH was a picture in soft toned tan crepe and matching chapeau as she entertained at the Saturday matinee, when Mojica, Garden and Vanni-Marcoux were holding the audience enthralled in Palleas and Melisande. Mrs. Welch is one of the opera season's most decorative young matrons, with her slender height, her fluffy golden brown hair and her penchant for the picturesquely beautiful in gowns and accessories. Miss Anne Ayer, Miss Eloise Lawrence and Miss Emily Davis, in their brilliantly tinted metal cloth wraps with rich fur collars, were an attractive trio in the foyer as they waited for their motors after hearing "Lucia." It's a delightful feature of opera in Boston, this turning out of the young set night after night.

CHARLOTTE CUSHMAN CLUB PLANNED FOR HUB

A movement for the establishment of a Charlotte Cushman club in this city has been started by a group of prominent Boston women interested in the theatre, headed by Mrs. Guy Currier, Mrs. Charles H. Innes, Mrs. Walter Baylies, Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, Mrs. E. E. Clive and scores of others.

A Charlotte Cushman club has long been a flourishing institution both in Chicago and Philadelphia, which has sheltered and inspired many young women of the stage.

GOLDEN ROADS by Winifred Van Duzer
Author of "THE GOOD BAD GIRL"

An Amazing Love Story of a Misunderstood Hub Working Girl

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Gay Moore and Christine Noe, her cousin, are employed in the State Street house of Johnstone Baird, Gay as a typist and Christine as telephone operator. Christine is in love with Roger Pennington and Gay is in love with Stanley Baird, Johnstone Baird's son. Christine runs around with Ivor Barclay in order to arouse Penny's jealousy. Stan's family disown him when he marries Gay. They happily start housekeeping. Stan obtains a position as an automobile mechanic. Christine marries Penny. They go to Europe for their honeymoon. Christine is jealous of Peggy Baird, Stan's sister, and Gay feels that Stanley has too much interest in Mimi Brooks, a girl of his own Back Bay set. Christine and Gay go to tea at a fashionable hotel, where they are met by Ivor Barclay. Stanley tells Gay that he has completed an invention which will mean they can move from their shabby apartment and have a real home. Penny comes to see Gay and she tells him he is spoiling Christine. He admits he is afraid to do otherwise for fear he would lose her. Stan tells Gay his father has offered to finance his new company. Gay worries for fear Stanley will be tempted to return to his old ways. Christine and Penny have a quarrel over money. Stan's mother visits Gay.

A tentative offer to go on the [illegible] has been made to Mrs. [illegible] who at present is the [illegible] of a beauty parlor.

Mrs. Huddleston, who learned to swim less than a year ago, triumphed over adverse tides, chilling waters and fog to cross the waterway in [illegible] hours and 42 minutes. Even the attacks of a savage barracuda fish failed to stop her from victory.

As the goal of success hove in sight, Mrs. Huddleston, in near delirium, was spurred on by her son, who called to her from a convoying rowboat: "Come on, mama, come on, mama, don't give up."

Surrounded by flowers sent by admirers, Mrs. Huddleston was resting today in her apartment under the care of a nurse. She was [illegible] but said she felt no ill effects from her strenuous swim. She said she lost 17 pounds during the ordeal.

When she was helped out of the water after finishing the final quarter mile she was in a state of semi-coma. She collapsed when lifted into the boat. Her leg was paralyzed.

About her body were bites and bruises received in her battle with the barracuda which had attacked her when she was midway across the channel.

Mrs. Huddleston's conquest culminated [illegible] attempts to negotiate [illegible]. [illegible] was [illegible] taken from the water after she had covered about two-thirds of the distance.

Mrs. Huddleston was the only one of four starters in the latest swim to reach the mainland. Peter Meyer of [illegible] gave up exhausted when he was two and a half miles from the goal. Mrs. Charlotte Schoemmel of New York abandoned the swim after covering approximately six miles. The third unsuccessful [illegible] was Miss Martha Stager of [illegible] who gave up after covering 10½ miles.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

TWO or three firms are cutting down their expense accounts by having the stenographers do the traveling salesmen's laundry.

THE girls type in the morning and wash in the afternoon.

EVERY desk is equipped with stationary tubs.

THE general manager has picked out eighteen stenographers and is forming a couple of scrub teams.

EACH one is trying to outwash the other.

IT won't be long now before business colleges will be giving courses in laundry work.

A SALESMAN had a stenographer fired the other day because she wasn't getting his shirts clean.

NOT only that, but she put glue in the water instead of starch.

SHE was a good typist, but she didn't keep her mind on the laundry.

ONE firm has a girl who's a dandy. She can take Mr. Smith's dictation with one hand and wash Mr. Karnes' socks with the other.

OF course once in a while she makes a mistake. Last week she got mixed up and sewed three buttons on a letter.

BUT she was right there with an alibi. She said she ran out of rhythms and used buttons to hold the words together.

IT seemed to be her off day. She washed a night letter and made a carbon copy of a salesman's shirt.

SHE also darned a contract and filed a pair of his socks.

THIS efficiency idea doesn't always save money. One salesman has been in Des Moines three weeks waiting for his laundry.

HE finally wrote a letter and told them to wire it to him in St. Louis.

HE lost a lot of business, but it wasn't his fault that the stenographer got behind in her washing.

BUT his laundry troubles are over, he now has three shirts. He keeps one on his back, one at the office and the other one in the mail.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE---BY HELEN ROWLAND

IS there a new sex-antagonism?

* * *

There has always been talk of "sex-antagonism" ever since Adam stalked in with his first rabbit and ordered Eve to make it into chicken-a-la-king. But, most of it seems to have been WOMAN'S antagonism against the "tyrant, man."

* * *

When men made plaything of women they used to preserve the outward appearance of chivalry and devotion. Now a man no longer reverently kisses a woman's fingertips; he doesn't even take a girl tenderly in his arms. He just grabs her around the neck, and BIFFS a kiss upon her—almost defiantly.

* * *

He no longer fights for her love—he fights AGAINST it, with all his mind and with all his heart and with all his sixty-horse work-power!

He no longer pets her with that gallant protecting air, and talks baby-talk to her—he just leans back and grudgingly permits her to pet HIM.

* * *

"Darling," "sweetheart," and "beautiful lady" are obsolete terms. His tenderest nicknames are "cutey," "good old thing," and "funny-face."

His fondest and most ardent manner is a sort of good-natured jollying which would have suit the old-fashioned girl running to Father in tears.

His love-making is as casual as an afternoon call, as subtle as a saxophone and as flattering as a ten-cent mirror. Even when he springs an ardent "line," he does it swaggeringly, as if to say, "Don't take me seriously."

* * *

The villain in the old-fashioned love-story had at least the grace to PRETEND he was going to marry the girl. But the modern hero takes no such chances. He looks coldly into her eyes and defies her to marry him.

* * *

Men have always defended themselves against women, secretly — but now they openly defy them. The war of the sex is no longer a matter of subtle strategy or a battle of wits, it is a wide-open street fight, in which every girl is struggling for conquest, and every man is fighting for his liberty.

* * *

There seems to be something all wrong about it. Love-making ought to have at least one-half of one per cent. love in it. A little truce during courtship would make the domestic Armageddon all the more exciting.

* * *

But, at least, the bride of today can never remind her husband of all the glamorous and beautiful things "you said before we were married!"

Finds Rockefeller Never Had Great Riches of Ford

Responding to stories from Washington that government experts disputed the claim that Henry Ford is the richest man, and claiming that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was "probably the only individual billionaire in the world," B. C. Forbes, the famous financial authority has written a special article for the Boston Evening American on the Rockefeller fortune.

The first two paragraphs of Mr. Forbes' absorbingly interesting analysis, answer questions being asked all over the world today. Mr. Frobes is noted not only as a great financial authority, but as a conservative and careful commentator.

By B. C. FORBES

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER never has been as rich as Henry Ford is today. John D. Rockefeller is not the second richest, nor the third richest man in America today.

Mr. Rockefeller in recent years has transferred [illegible] of his fortune to his son, John D., Jr. He doubtless is now the second richest man in America.

Neither Rockefeller is a billionaire. Some years ago the writer estimated John D. Rockefeller's wealth at [illegible]. This brought from the Rockefeller headquarters the authoritative statement that "Mr. Rockefeller's fortune is nowhere near a billion dollars."

J. D., Jr., ANSWERS

Almost ten years ago, in response to a published statement that the Rockefeller fortune was estimated at $2,500,000,000, John D., Jr., wrote to the [illegible]:

"Feeling sure that you do not wish to give currency to a statement based wholly on guess work and greatly exaggerated, I venture to state that my father's fortune, far from being two billion dollars, does not approach half that amount."

Twenty years ago Frederick T. Gates, through whom many of Mr. Rockefeller's gifts were made, was authorized to issue the statement that Mr. Rockefeller's fortune "cannot exceed $[illegible] or $[illegible]," and that his income "could not, in the most prosperous year, have exceeded $15,000,000 or $20,000,000."

HOW FAR the veteran oil king has gone in transferring his fortune to his only son is clearly reflected in the last published income tax returns of the amounts paid by individuals. It was there shown that John D. Rockefeller paid for that year $124,429, whereas John D., Jr., paid $6,278,669, Henry Ford paid $2,[illegible], and Edsel Ford, $2,158,055.

Since the son became the Santa Claus of the Rockefeller money it is probable, judging from the published records, that quite as much Rockefeller money has been given away as has been made.

The recorded Rockefeller benefactions are now well above $500,000,000. Including gifts made since the last published list, and allowing for gifts not made known to the public, it would not be very far wide of what is approximately the total Rockefeller fortune. Since then many millions have been given away annually.

THE AMBITION of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is not to pile up more and more millions. His ambition is, rather, to utilize the Rockefeller millions for the greatest good of the greatest number.

Young Mr. Rockefeller devotes a large part of his time to studying carefully the reports prepared for him by trained investigators sent to all parts of the world. The son, in fact, is as earnest in conducting the Rockefeller philanthropies as his father ever was in accumulating the millions now being used to benefit mankind.

THIS ANECDOTE went the rounds of the newspapers some ten years ago when John D. Rockefeller was congratulated by a reporter on a gigantic gift to education.

"It must be a fine feeling," said the reporter, "to give away millions."

STOPS WORRYING

"You get used to it," said Mr. Rockefeller. "To stop giving is what would jar me. I'm afraid I'm like the retired business man whose wife said the first day of his retirement:

"'Father, what is the matter? You look so worried.'

"'Well, no wonder I'm worried,' he said. 'I've never before had nothing to worry about.'"

DURING RECENT years the eighty-seven year old Rockefeller has done little worrying. He trained his son to shoulder the Rockefeller burdens. Mr. Rockefeller once said to me:

"I count it one of God's greatest blessings to me that he has given me a son who is interested in the worthwhile things of life."

The elder Rockefeller's attitude is that his day for striving and worrying has passed and that he is entitled to devote his remaining years to finding health and healthful recreation.

MAINE MAN IS AMERICAN ICE PRESIDENT

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Charles C. Small, new president of the American Ice Co., left his native State of Maine when fourteen years old. He applied himself with diligence to the ice industry for nearly two score years. Note that he reaches the top rung of the ladder by hard work and not by sheer luck.

Charles C. Small

You doubtless know that a few dollars invested in American Ice Company when Mr. Small was working his way upward years ago would have made you comparatively wealthy today. American Ice Company manufactures ice and does a wholesale and retail business in manufactured and natural ice in Maine, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and the District of Columbia. Subsidiary companies operate in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and New York. In the past five years gross sales and net profits have been subject to only slight variation.

This is the era of conferences, as remarked before in this column. If New England's future is at any time jeopardized, as seems unlikely, it will not be from lack of conferences. Mayor Lowe of Fitchburg is the latest to start a conference ball rolling. As a result of his efforts textile cities and towns throughout Massachusetts are preparing for a joint conference at Fitchburg within the next few weeks in an effort to help retain their mills. About half the seventeen towns and cities invited to send representatives have accepted invitations by Mr Lowe following recommendation of a nonpartisan group of Fitchburg business men appointed by him to arouse community interest in problems affecting textile plants.

Modification of the 48-hour law has been urged by the Fitchburg committee. Mayor Lowe says manufacturers ask only to be allowed to use the plants, on which they pay taxes, at times when there is work to be done and do not ask that average work week for year be more than 48 hours. Committee suggests modification of the 48-hour law to permit women to work in the evening, possibly up to 11 or 12 o'clock, helping manufacturers to operate two shifts.

The writer believes that a cousin of his at Kittery, Me., established a world's record for officeholding in corporations. At one time she was clerk or secretary or treasurer of between three and four thousand companies organized by the late Horace Mitchell, for whom she was secretary. In those days you could incorporate in Maine for only a few dollars and with little red tape. The Pine Tree State was the mecca of American organizers.

STOCK SALESMEN HELD IN $200,000 THEFTS

Six salesmen connected with a Chicago house have been arrested on charge of having taken over $200,000 from 600 farmers and small town residents of Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Michigan who wanted to buy such listed stocks as General Motors, Montgomery Ward, etc., but who never received certificates from firm.

New York Curb

New York, Feb. 7.—Oil and industrial stocks were active but steady on the curb market today. Fractional gains were made by Cities Service at 57⅝, Carib at 24½ and Indiana at 71⅝. Rand Kardex sold ¼ point lower at 67⅞, while Estey-Welte A at 22¾ was unchanged.

Advice from R. J. Fiore to Housewives

STOP: We don't stop washing your clothes until absolutely sanitary.

LOOK: We look always for the best, to clean your clothes, which gives you comfort and also rest.

LISTEN: Be careful where you have your laundry done, that will save you money, but sickness begun.

It is understood as I explained, Stop-Look-& Listen.

All housewives the moment they hear an auto pass near their homes, they leave everything behind thinking of nothing but to save their children. Why not do the same with your laundry, which is more dangerous. Pay more you get more. Pay less and you never rest.

Visitors always welcomed to my plant.

Time Changes All Things

Even Hatreds Melt Away

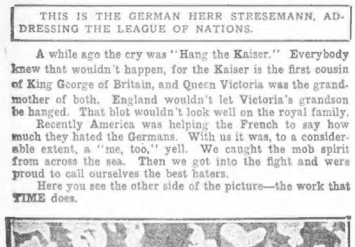

THIS IS THE GERMAN HERR STRESEMANN, ADDRESSING THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

A while ago the cry was "Hang the Kaiser." Everybody knew that wouldn't happen, for the Kaiser is the first cousin of King George of Britain, and Queen Victoria was the grandmother of both. England wouldn't let Victoria's grandson be hanged. That blot wouldn't look well on the royal family.

Recently America was helping the French to say how much they hated the Germans. With us it was, to a considerable extent, a "me, too," yell. We caught the mob spirit from across the sea. Then we got into the fight and were proud to call ourselves the best haters.

Here you see the other side of the picture—the work that TIME does.

HERR STRESEMANN CONGRATULATED BY THOSE THAT RECENTLY HATED HIM.

The picture at the top shows Herr Stresemann, representing the German Republic, addressing the League of Nations, which has just given to Germany a full seat in the Council, which was denied to Spain and other countries.

The second picture shows representatives of the great European nations, France, England, Italy and others, crowding around the German to congratulate him on his fine address.

A man of power in this Herr Stresemann, not the accident of birth like the former Kaiser or his unimportant Crown Prince son, but the powerful product of the powerful GERMAN PEOPLE.

Great is the German nation, leading in science, music, poetry, MISLED by a feeble descendant of the money-lending Hohenzollerns. They are now free of HIM.

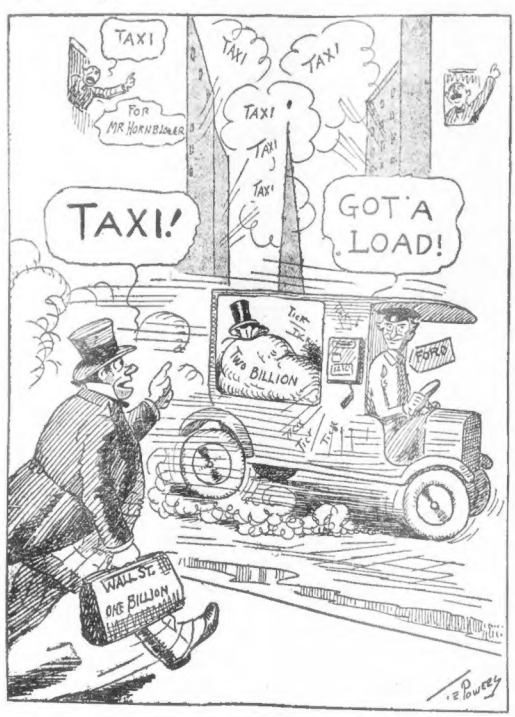

The days of hate apparently are past, at least until the NEXT war. Briand of France and Stresemann of Germany lunch together like brothers while England applauds.

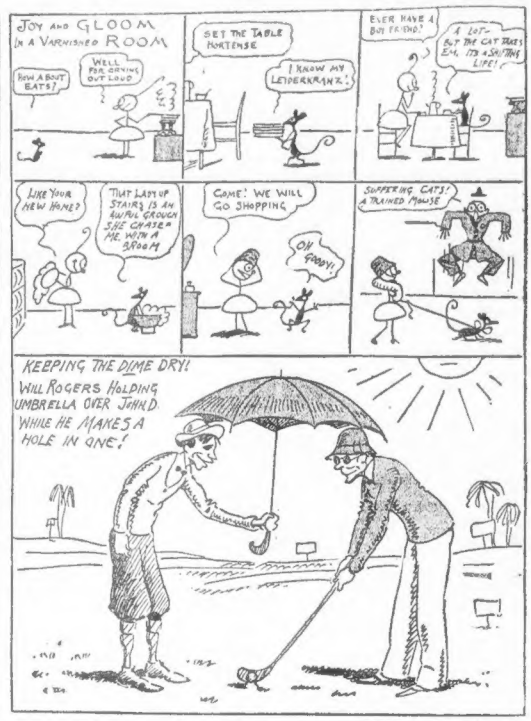

It is a love feast in Europe, and all the love feasters, by the way, combine in their hatred of the UNITED STATES. Some because they owe us money, others because we wouldn't lend them ENOUGH money, others on general principles, because WE are rich and THEY are poor.

The lesson is, THIS COUNTRY SHOULD KEEP READY FOR ANYTHING THAT MAY COME in a world that forgets so quickly. We ought to have a fighting air fleet.

Nothing Doing

POINT OF VIEW ON WOMEN TEACHERS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

DISCUSSION has been going on recently in the press about George Bernard Shaw's remark that a woman ought to be a mother in order to be a good teacher.

This remark was made opposing the tendencies in many places to have only unmarried teachers.

Many educators have expressed themselves upon one side or the other of this question.

After all it is merely a point of view.

One side looks at the question as to whether a woman can do a good job of teaching or not.

The other side looks at the question as to whether the woman ought to have the place or not with the salary attached.

In many places of business a job is looked upon as a sort of special privilege and certain classes are favored in giving jobs out, such as world war veterans, old people, unmarried people and so on.

If a man can do the business, or a woman either, what difference does it make whether he or she is married or not or young or old?

What most people want in business is results. Who attains them or how they are attained is a matter of indifference so long as it is done honestly.

I remember once that a presiding elder in the Methodist church gave as his reason for sending a man to a certain place the following:

"If I send that man it will kill the place and if I don't send him it will kill him, so between the two I will send him and save the man."

This is a good example of care for the individual ranking above care for his work. Every man must be judged by the kind of work he does and not by whether he is deserving of the job or not.

The other side of civil service is to select men competent for the position, and not to give the positions out to certain groups of men.

BOSTON DAY BY DAY

SPARE MOMENTS.

PRESIDENT GEORGE S. MUMFORD of the ATLANTIC NATIONAL BANK is receiving compliments on the new book, "Spare Moments," to which he has written the introduction. It is a 275-page collection of writing on various business subjects by employes of his bank.

SPARE THAT TREE.

JOHN S. LAWRENCE, distinguished New Englander, told the American Forestry Association the forest lands of New England must be preserved and developed by private enterprise. PRESIDENT WELLINGTON WELLS of the Massachusetts State Senate is doing his bit in this direction. On PRESIDENT WELLS' great farm at Chesham, N. H., a few weeks ago the writer saw one of the largest and most thriving white pine plantations he has viewed in many a day.

STUDIES THEM.

FIRE COMMISSIONER EUGENE C. HULTMAN doesn't attend fires just to stand on the sidelines and watch his men run up and down ladders. Judging from past performances, he insists on seeing what is on the inside as well as what appears from the street. As fires are brought under control, he may be seen with CHIEF DANIEL F. SENNOTT, or some deputy chief, disappearing into fire-swept buildings, on a tour of inspection.

THEY ASK HIM.

CITY MESSENGER EDWARD J. LEARY is regarded by Boston political sages as a man of overflowing imagination, enormous range of reading, deep interest in all aspects of humanity, and most vivacious wit and eloquence. Student statesmen often ask him how the "pols" made good in the old day in the PENINSULA DISTRICT.

TRIP SOUTH.

FORMER MAYOR ANDREW J. PETERS has just returned from Aiken, South Carolina, where he went with one of his young children, who couldn't seem to get rid of a severe cold, while in BOSTON. The change of climate benefited the ex-mayor's kiddie so much that he decided to leave him there in a private school for a few weeks.

PURSE OF GOLD

For thirty-five years faithful services as organist of the CHURCH of the MOST PRECIOUS BLOOD, HYDE PARK, MRS JENNIE F. SHEEHAN was tendered a reception by the church choir and presented with a purse of $50 in gold. The presentation was made by the REV. HENRY T. GRADY, pastor of the church.

The Race for Evolution

By Garrett P. Serviss,

"I LIKE your comprehensive and clear way of treating subjects which are obscure to the lay mind. So I ask: If things in the universe operate in cycles, which the theory of evolution seems to indicate, is it possible that other members of the animal kingdom besides man have been once a highly intelligent and advanced strain, which, in the course of time, retrogressed to the status in which we now find them?—A. N. W., N. Y.

Evolution seems to me to suggest an ancient Greek "torch race" in which many contestants started for the goal with flaming lights, but few won through with torch still blazing, rather than a cyclical movement or a succession of advances and retrocessions.

Who knows but that in the almost infinite reach of time which modern speculation assigns to solar and planetary life, the humble mollusk, some of whose forms have scarcely altered from what they appeared at the dawn of geologic time, may come through transformed into the highest of all types, planting its torch on the very apex—in apotheosis of the homely motto, "Slow but Sure!"

Evolutionary history tells little of retrogression, but much of failure, falling by the way or stumbling into the ditch. There was a remote era when the trilobite, strange ancestor of scorpions and spiders, was apparently the aristocrat of animals, but he is only a fossil today.

His torch was blown out about the time that Pennsylvania was stored with anthracite. Near that same time the insect race developed insects with wings a foot and a half in span! But their torch-bearer also lost his flame, though now the race seems to be picking up in numbers and voracity what it lost in size.

During the Age of Reptiles there was a foot-to-foot race between the other branches of the backboned animals, as represented by the reptiles, and the new branch the mammals, in whose line man was to be developed.

The mammals came out ahead, but the reptiles cannot be said to have retrograded except that they lost their gigantic skeletons; the enormous saurians giving place to creatures of mere moderate dimensions, such as alligators and crocodiles.

We see something similar in human history, where one race of man after another has come to the front —suavity suddenly—and then has lost the light, the spirit of victory, or whatever it may be, and sunk into passive mediocrity, without any real retrogression, at least physically.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

A MOTHER has asked me to have this published. She says: "My only son died a year ago, Elsie. Everyone thought it would kill me and many cannot understand how I have gone through this year cheerfully, doing my usual work. Perhaps some of them think my love was not very great. Oh, it wasn't that. Words cannot tell how I loved him. But—it was so wonderful to be a mother. So wonderful that even death cannot dim the wonder. I have tried in this to tell other mothers what it has meant. It may help someone."

To My Son Who Would Have Been Twenty-two This Day.

They pity me, and say—"her boy is dead"—
They treat me as they treat the halt and blind
And wonder why my life has come to naught
And marvel more how I can still endure.

But I walk proudly, as the gods might walk,
And feel a pride within me like a flame,
For why should I feel bankrupt or bereft,
I, who have held the sword Excalibur?
You know the story of King Arthur's sword—
How when the years were ripe old Merwin led
The boy along strange paths down to the pool
Whose waters were a darkness, locked and sealed,
Then willed for the sign that was to be,
And suddenly from out the pool there broke
A strong, white hand, and in that hand a sword
That flamed like lightning on their startled sight.
And Arthur, trembling, took the singing blade
And from that moment Arthur was a King.
So through long years King Arthur walked apart,
And held the glory of Excalibur.
And knew the pride and pain such glory brings,
Then, when at last the promise was fulfilled
He found his way again to that same pool
And saw the bright blade pass from out of sight.
And vanish in the waters whence it came.

Then Arthur, turning, went his way alone,
But always Arthur walked, as walks a king.
And in his heart there burned a godlike pride
Because he, for a while, had held the sword.

So came I, in my travail, to a lake,
That dim, mysterious water men call Birth,
And there lay waiting through troubled night.
Then, suddenly, the darkness was all rent
And Life broke through it, like flaming blade,
And laid its glory in my poor, weak hands.
And from that moment I, too walked with God.

I still was made of common, earthly clay,
Kin to the wolf, the weasel, ape and snake,
Beset by greediness and spite and fear,
Stupid and weak as ever I had been—
But by my side there went the shinning blade
And in my heart I knelt before its flame

And by that service I was linked to Him
Who holds the keys of heaven in His hand.

So through a span of years, I held that sword
And served its brightness with a grateful heart;
I watched its beauty pass like some white flower
Along the dark and dusty lanes of life—
I saw its purity emerge unsoiled
From out the press and squalor of the fight—
I saw its courage leap like winged flame
Above the grip of poverty and pain.
And then the years were done—once more I came
To a dark pool which Fate had marked for me—
That black and bitter pool which men call Death,
And saw my bright sword pass into its night.
And still I walk as kings, walk, proud and tall,
And wonder why they think I am so poor,
And hate the falsity of my own tears—
For why should I take pity as a dole,
And why should I be lonely, shamed or sad,
I, who have held the sword Excaliber?
